THE CONTESTED MARRIAGE.

Three weeks had nearly glided by, and no tidings of Mr. Ferret, Mr. Granger, and her sister Emily Dalton, a very charming person, had called repeatedly; but as I of course had nothing to communicate, they were still condemned to languish under the heart sickened by hope deferred. At last our emissary made his wished-for appearance.

"Well, Mr. Ferret," said I on entering my library, where I found him composedly awaiting my arrival, "what success?"

"Why, nothing of much consequence as yet," replied he; "I am, you know, only as it were, just commencing the investigation. The Leeds person that married them is dead, and the old clerk is paralytic, and has lost his memory. If, however, they were both alive, and in sound health of mind and body, they could I fancy, help us but little, as Bliston tells me neither the Daltons nor Granger had ever entered the church all the morning of the wedding, and they soon afterwards removed to Cumberland, so that it is scarcely possible either person or clerk could prove that Violet Dalton was married to Sir Harry Compton."

A very intelligent fellow is Bliston; he was present at the marriage, you remember; and a glorious witness, if he only had something of importance to declare. A powdered hair and pigtail, double chin, and six feet in girth at least; highly respectable—capital witness, very, only, unfortunately, he can only testify that a person calling himself Granger married Violet Dalton; not much in that.

"So, then, your 'green weeds' labor has been entirely thrown away!"

"Not so fast—not so fast—you jump too hastily at conclusions. The Cumberland fellow that sold Granger the house—only the equity of redemption of it, by the way, there's a twinkle in his sharp gray eye, amounting to a wink;—there is one circumstance which I cannot help thinking, though I scarcely know why, on the right track. In a corner of the registry of marriage there is written 'Z. Z. in bold letters. In no other part of the book does this occur. What may this mean? It is the incumbent of the living a curate at the time?"

"No. On that point I am unfortunately too well satisfied. Neither are there any names with such initials in any of the Leeds churchyards. Still this Z. Z. may be of importance if we could but discover who he is. But here—that is the question. Advise me, please, your hands to the opposite players, and find if Z. Z. is really an entity, and likely to be of service, that when we want him in court, he will half way to America. No, no; that would never do."

"Mr. Ferret, I saw you getting into a brown study, and as I had pressing business to dispatch, I got rid of him as speedily as I could, quite satisfied, sir, of Z. Z., that Mrs. Granger's chance of becoming Lady Compton was about equal to mine of ascending the British throne some fine day."

"Two days afterwards I received the following note:—

"DEAR SIR—Z. Z. is the man! I'm off to Scotland. Back it possible, the day after to-morrow. Not a word even to the ladies. Hurra! In haste, SAMUEL FERRET."

"What could this Mr. Spivey do? Mr. Ferret's injunction, I could not help informing the sisters, who called soon after I had received the note, that a discovery, esteemed of importance by our emissary, had been made; and they returned home with lightened hearts, after agreeing to repeat their visit on the day Mr. Ferret had named."

"On reaching my chambers about four o'clock in the afternoon of that day, I found the ladies there, and in a state of great excitement. Mr. Ferret, my clerk had informed them, had called twice, and seemed in the highest spirits. We had wasted but a few minutes in conjectures when Mr. Ferret himself entered the stairs two or three at a time, burst into the apartment."

"Good day, sir! Lady Compton, your most obedient servant; madam, yours! All right! Only just in time to get the writ sealed; served it myself a quarter of eight, but as Mr. Ferret's lordship was getting into his carriage, not a day to lose; just in time. Capital! Glorious!"

"What do you mean, Mr. Ferret?" exclaimed Emily Dalton; her sister was too agitated to speak.

"What I mean? Let us all four step, sir, into my inner sanctum, and I'll soon tell you what I mean."

Grace had openly declared, he knew not, was also of course accommodated with a seat on the bench. A formidable bar, led by the celebrated Mr. Ferret, I saw, arrayed against us, though what the case was they had not met, so well had Ferret kept his secret, they knew no more than did their horse hair wigs. Ferret had solemnly enjoined the sisters to silence, and no hint, I need scarcely say, was likely to escape my lips. The jury, special of course, were in attendance, and the case, 'Doe demise of Compton versus Emdale,' having been called, they were duly sworn to try the issue. My junior, Mr. Frampton, was just rising to state the case, as it is technically called, when a tremendous shouting, rapidly increasing in volume and distinctness, and mingled with the sound of carriage wheels was heard approaching, and presently Mr. Samuel Ferret appeared, followed by Lady Compton and her son, the rear of the party brought up by Sir Jasper Thornley, those jelly-foot-hungry face shone like a full-blown peony. The lady, though painfully agitated, looked charmingly; and the timid, peering glance she unconsciously, as it were, threw round the court, would, in a doubtful case, have secured a verdict. 'Very well got up, indeed,' said Mr. S—, in a voice of surprise, for the jury to hear—very effectively managed. 'The case of the jury, you will observe, in too good humor to heed tauts; and as soon as silence was restored, Mr. Frampton briefly stated the case, and I rose to address the jury. My speech was purposely brief, business like, and confident. I endeavored to make my case as plain as possible, and to show that the evidence in favor of Sir Harry Compton, baronet, this lady, Violet Dalton, then only eighteen years of age, with a Mr. Granger; the birth of a son; and subsequent disappearance of the husband; concluding by an assurance to the jury that I should prove, by incontrovertible evidence, that Compton was a better person than the late Sir Harry Compton, baronet. This lady, by no means lessened the vague apprehensions of the other side. A counsel that, with such materials for eloquence, disclaimed having recourse to it, must need have a formidable case. The smiling countenances of Mr. S— and his brethren became suddenly overcast, and the pallor and agitation of Lord Emdale sensibly increased."

We proved our case clearly, step by step; the marriage, the acquittal, the hand writing of Granger—Bliston proved this to the letters addressed to his wife, were clearly established. The registry of the marriage was produced by the present clerk of the Leeds church; the initials Z. Z. were pointed out; and at my suggestion the book was deposited for the purpose of the trial with the clerk of the court. Not a word of cross-examination was allowed, and his brethren became suddenly overcast, and the pallor and agitation of Lord Emdale sensibly increased."

"The jury hastily and joyfully assented; the verdict was recorded, and the court adjourned for an hour in the midst of tumultuous excitement. The result of the trial flew through the crowd like wildfire; and the next day Lady Compton and her son, after struggling through the densely crowded court, stepped into Sir Jasper's carriage, which was in waiting at the door, the enthusiastic uproar that ensued—the hurraing, shouting, waving of hats and handkerchiefs, and the bewilderment of the crowd, were all so much to the slow-moving chariot reached Sir Jasper's mansion, though not more than half a mile distant from the town. Mr. Ferret mounted on the box, and almost smothered in purple and orange, was a conspicuous object, and a prime favorite with the crowd. The next day Lord Emdale, glad, doubtless, to quit the neighborhood as speedily as possible, left the castle giving Lady Compton immediate possession. The joy of the tenantry was unbounded; and under the wakeful superintendence of Mr. Ferret, all claims against Lord Emdale for Maxwell's dilapidations, &c., were adjudged, we may be sure, not adversely to his clients' interests; though he frequently complained, not half so satisfactorily as if Lady Compton had not interfered, with what Mr. Ferret deemed misplaced generosity in the matter."

I was obliged to proceed onwards with the circuit, I called at Compton Castle to take leave of my interesting and fortunate client a few days after her installation there. I was most gratefully received and entertained. As I took leave at parting, her ladyship, after pressing upon me her own parting gift, a small box, said, whilst her charming eyes were filled with regretful, yet joyful tears, 'Do not forget that poor Henry intended at last to do us justice! Prosperity, thought I, will not spoil that woman. It has not, as the world, were I authorized to communicate her real name, would readily acknowledge.'

"What getting disgusted—A correspondent of the New York Mirror, whom that paper vouches for as an original friend of General Taylor, writes from New York as follows:—

"The Secretary of the Navy and the Postmaster General, as well as the Secretary of State, are unpopular with our own people. Collamer is charged with roughness and uncouthness of manners, Clayton with duplicity, and Preston with want of real regard for the service. Against Clayton, a combination of the whig press is already at work. He will resign in every quarter, and he has felt it already."

"I conclude with the remark made to me by one of the most eminent, prominent, and noble-minded whigs of this city—a man of fortune—who wants nothing, and yet has from the start done more for General Taylor than all the South, and all the whig press of the United States. 'This administration, which I helped to success, will go to the devil faster than any other we ever had. We supposed we were throwing off those contemptible influences which so long controlled us. We are now creeping in at every hole and corner, and General Taylor is made by his abominable advisers to forsake himself, or at least forget the pledges which we re-assured for him. I did not work for this.' This is no sketch of fancy; it is the feeling here."

"Stand firm under—The Washington correspondent of the Boston Traveller says:—'Secretary Ewing is mentioned to-day as likely to be the successor of Mr. Bagby to Russia.' We have heard rumors in this city of a similar character, but, however, they are not to be taken seriously. They are to the purpose, that the present cabinet are to go through with the work of proscriptio, and then give place to another with Gov. Crittenden at its head. Of course, the retiring Secretaries will be provided with comfortable salaries, and will, if not with senatorial confirmations. Thus the game is to be played. We think, however, in the final reckoning with the people, the movers of the wheels will stand no better chance than the scapegoats.—Washington Union."

"YOUTHFUL FIDELITY.—The New York Commercial Advertiser relates the fact, that of all the ship's company, embracing officers and crew of the Pacific mail steamer 'California,' but two individuals remained faithful duty upon her arrival at San Francisco. These were Captain Forbes, and the other a mere lad, named James Dekay, son of Dr. James E. Dekay, residing on Long Island. The lad was offered large pecuniary inducements to forsake the ship, but was true to his duty, and his fidelity was reported to the company."

"He had entered into the service to acquire a practical knowledge of steam engineering, and though still too young to take any responsible station in that department, he was immediately ranked as an assistant engineer, with high pay, and only awaits age and experience to find his position in a position which is rich in honor and fidelity."

"The Pacific Mail Steamship Company, not willing that conduct so meritorious should pass without some additional notice and approbation, has provided a rich and excellent gold watch for this lad, and caused to be inscribed upon it as follows:—

"A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches.' Presented by the 'Pacific Mail Steamship Company' to James Dekay, for fidelity to duty under trying circumstances, July, 1849."

"The watch was sent to Dr. Dekay, with an accompanying letter from William H. Aspinwall, President of the Company, speaking in terms of high approval of the meritorious conduct and character of the youth."

believed genuine, confirming his story. I heard no more of the matter till waited upon by the attorney of the plaintiff, Mr. Ferret. A breathless silence prevailed during the delivery of this evidence. At its conclusion, the dull brain in court comprehended that the cause was gained, and a succession of cheers, which could not be suppressed, rang through the court, and were loud enough from without, Sir Jasper's voice sounding high above all the rest. Suddenly, too, as if by magic, almost everybody in court, save the jury and council, were decorated with orange and purple favors, and a perfect shower of them fell at the feet of the person of Lady Compton, her sister, who had by this time joined her, and the infant Sir Henry. As soon as the exclamations and menaces of the judge had restored silence and order, his lordship, addressing Lord Emdale's senior counsel, said, 'Well, Lady Compton and her son, the rear of the party brought up by Sir Jasper Thornley, those jelly-foot-hungry face shone like a full-blown peony. The lady, though painfully agitated, looked charmingly; and the timid, peering glance she unconsciously, as it were, threw round the court, would, in a doubtful case, have secured a verdict. Uses of the Black English Currant.—The Black English Currant is represented to have qualities that entitle it to extensive propagation. A kind of Wine has been manufactured from it, which is celebrated for its medicinal properties. The Boston Medical Examiner, quoted by Fessenden, said of this wine—"It has all the good properties of the best Port without any of its heating or constipating effects. Its exhibition has been attended with remarkable success in the early stages of cholera and dysentery; and again in the latter stages of these diseases, after the symptoms of inflammation or febrile excitement had ceased. It has been strikingly remedial in the low stages of typhoid and bilious fever. In sore throat it is considered almost a specific remedy."

Kerrick, in his American Orchardist, says, "From the Black Currant a jelly is made of superior medical efficacy; a wine is also made from them which possesses far superior medical virtue to Port Wine. The jelly has been highly recommended for disorders of the throat, and as a tonic in the stomach of ships sailing to the East Indies. A liquor is pressed from the Black Currant, which Mr. Forsyth states, is possessed of great medicinal efficacy in obstinate coughs, &c.—Michigan Farmer."

BLACKBERRY STRUP.—The following recipe for Summer Complaint we extract from the Georgetown Advocate:—

Procure newly gathered blackberries. Stew them until the berries break, strain through a flannel bag, and to one pint of the juice, add 1 pound of loaf-sugar, 1 oz. of cinchona, a half ounce of mace, a half ounce of cloves, (the spices to be pounded to a powder,) stew all together about fifteen minutes, and add one gill of best French Brandy; bottle and seal it closely and keep it in a cool place. A common teaspoonful (repeated as circumstances may require) given at the first appearance of the disease will accomplish the most pleasing results.

A teaspoonful in a glass of water makes a very pleasant and wholesome beverage in warm weather; especially for children with "summer complaint."

To Keep Birds From Fruits.—Suspend in the trees or vines pieces of looking glass by a string, so as to turn freely in direction. No bird will come near after a first trial or so, unless very tame.

The Miami Canal is again in full operation, and the landing to-day presented a quite animated appearance. About fifteen boats had arrived up to 6 P. M., and a number were receiving freight for the North. All the breaks along the entire line of the Canal have been repaired, and it is again navigable to Toledo. Cincinnati Atlas.

Rebellion in Pennsylvania.—A large meeting of citizens of Huntington and Fishing Creek townships, Luzerne county, Pennsylvania, was held on the 7th of July, at which a series of resolutions were adopted, handing the second Washington and his managers of the Post Office Department without remorse. Amongst others, the following resolution was adopted:—

Resolved, That removing the Post Office from Columbus and removing our worthy whig friend George Kremer, from the office, is an insult to the whole party, which demands immediate reparation."

Generals Houston and Rusk.—Generals Houston and Rusk, Senators in Congress from the State of Texas, appeared at a public meeting in Marshall, Texas, on the 31st ult., and addressed the people at length, on the public questions of the day. Both had refused to sign the Southern Address; and one—General Houston—had voted for the Oregon Bill, which contains a recognition of the Ordinance of 1787 relative to slavery. Both defended their votes, and charged upon the grounds for justification.

Both denounced Calhoun bitterly, and laughed at the suggestion in the Southern Address, that the South would defeat certain legislation by force. Gen. Rusk would not threaten the North, or turn his back upon the noble democracy of the North. He was ardently in favor of the interests of Texas and the slave States, but he was not ready to follow Mr. Calhoun's lead.

Resignation of Gen. Cass.—We understand from reliable authority that Gen. Cass will resign his seat in the Senate during the ensuing winter. The Michigan Legislature having instructed him to vote for the Proviso, he proposes waiting until that question comes up, when he will make a great speech against the Proviso and Calhoun, and then resign. Like a Canuche, he will fire and run.—Chicago Tribune.

Santa Anna Robbed.—A letter from Jamaica says that Mr. Antonio, a well-known Mexican General, has been robbed of his jewelry and money to a considerable amount, the property of the General. It was also discovered that the same individual had committed forgeries in the name of General Santa Anna, the ex-Dictator of Mexico, and had used the name to secure a mercantile house at Kingston, to the amount of one thousand seven hundred pounds. A fast vessel has been despatched to Havana, in pursuit of the delinquent.

Fire at Chicago.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 14, 1849.

THE ELECTION.—ALLEN COUNTY.

Our election last Monday passed off quietly, and without much excitement. It will be seen by the official returns in another column that the democrats have been signally triumphant, having elected the whole ticket by sweeping majorities. We give Wright for Governor 242 majority!! Harlan for Congress 255!! Bird for Representative 484!! The vote was rather light being 108 less than was given at the Presidential election last fall. Allowing that some few white stayed from the polls (which however was far from being the case) our clear majority would be 140,—much more than the most sanguine democrat anticipated. The democrats of Allen have cause to feel proud of the result. It must be acknowledged, however, that circumstances were this year altogether in their favor. The whigs were in some measure disorganized and dissatisfied by the manner in which their candidate for Congress forced himself upon them; many of them were indifferent to the result, and not a few refused to vote for Kilgore; and the contest for Governor was a hopeless one to them; and to crown all, the nomination of their candidate for Legislature was exceedingly distasteful to a large portion of their party, who could not under any circumstances be induced to vote for a German. By a reference to the vote it will be seen that at least 150 whigs must have voted against Mr. Muhler, their nominee.

Added to these, other causes of dissatisfaction existed amongst the whigs,—not the least prominent of which was the manner in which the vacancies caused by the removal of the U. S. officers here were filled. Many of the most active working whigs were justly incensed at the way in which these appointments were made, and determined that those who arrogated to themselves the power of dispensing the patronage of the universal whig party should hereafter have to do their share of the labor of conducting the campaign. Under the operation of these causes the whig party was in a measure disorganized, and the victory was rendered easy to the democrats.

In view of this, it will not do for the democrats to rest supinely, nor to expect that they can maintain our supremacy without making strong efforts hereafter. Allen county is now thoroughly democratic, and with union, perseverance, and activity on our part will doubtless remain so; but without these we shall be in danger of losing the advantage we have gained. The election of our Representative, Mr. Bird, by such an overwhelming majority, is the great triumph of the day. His competitor, Mr. Muhler, is a German, and was nominated in the vain hope that he would draw off the German vote from the democratic ticket. But to the honor of the Germans be it said, that they stood firm, and spurned the bait so insidiously spread before them. A few of Mr. M's. personal friends doubtless voted for him, but the great body of the German voters stood firm as adamant to their principles, and showed that the whigs underrated their intelligence and independence if they expected to seduce them from the democratic ranks by such a shallow pretence.

Mr. Muhler's nomination was heralded in the Times as a proof that the whig party was the true friend of the naturalized citizens. But the result of the election tells a different story, and shows that the bulk of the whig party are now as ever opposed to them. At least one hundred and fifty did not vote for Mr. Muhler, and many of these were heard publicly to object to him in the most disparaging terms because he was a German; others would not vote for him because he was a Catholic. These facts will not be lost on the naturalized citizens. Whiggery has unshaken itself, and shown that the old leaven of federalism and nativism still lurks in its system, and that though as a matter of policy they may nominate a naturalized citizen, yet they cannot be induced to elect one. The eyes of many Germans who have hitherto voted with the whigs have been opened, and few if any of them will be found hereafter acting with that party. The cunningly devised trick has signally failed, and has reflected most disastressously on those who concocted it.

We give below a summary of the official vote of the county.

• Democratic in India. Jos. H. Cravens and John W. Wright, the Abolition candidates for Governor and Lieutenant received each 2 votes in Wayne township and 1 in Washington. Whitcomb's majority for Governor, in 1846, this county, was 77. Cast majority last year 68. Democratic gain 185!! So far as we have received accounts the School Law and Convention have been adopted throughout the State by large majorities.

TENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

Harlan's Majority 255!!

We give below returns from all the counties in the Tenth Congressional District, by which it will be seen that ANGELO J. HARLAN, democrat, is elected by 637 majority!! Most of the returns, it will be seen, are official, and the remainder we have no doubt will be found nearly correct—except perhaps Randolph, which has done so much better than we had anticipated, that we can scarcely credit it.

This is a glorious triumph. Almost every county has nobly sustained itself and the democratic cause. The northern part of the district especially has fairly outdone itself, and has set an example that we trust may hereafter have its due influence in the south. In Delaware County, where Kilgore resides, it will be seen that he has a large majority.—This was effected by the most shameless bargaining and corruption. Every thing on the whig ticket was swapped off to secure votes for Kilgore. Matson, the whig candidate for Governor, only gets 70 majority in a county which ought to have given him 300, and the entire democratic county ticket is elected.—This shows to what base means Kilgore and his friends could resort to accomplish their ends; and it also shows a laxity in principle, and a dereliction from duty on the part of the democrats of that county that we hope never again to witness. There must be something wrong among the leaders of the party there, and if this is the way they intend to manage matters, the sooner the party is rid of such managers the better.

We had an absurd rumor afloat here yesterday that Randolph county had given Kilgore 500 or 600 majority, which tended to cheer up our despairing neighbor and the whigs generally wonderfully. They felt as good over it as if it were true and Kilgore actually elected. We could not find it in our hearts to deceive them too suddenly, and therefore let them enjoy the delusion as long as we thought prudent.

This is an old source of comfort with our whig friends. In every Congressional election since we have been in the district, the whigs have worked themselves into the belief that they had elected their man—and in every instance, after enjoying the sweet delusion for a day or two, they have discovered, as they do this time, that the democrat is elected. It is a needless task for a whig to undertake to run in this district.

☞ The telegraph has been out of repair for the past two or three weeks, consequently no reports have been received. If the line had been in working order we should probably have been enabled to give readers the majority of Wright and Lane for Governor and Lt. Governor. If we can judge from what we have done here, the democratic majority in the State must be very large.

CHOLERA.—The Cholera appears to be abating in the west. In St. Louis it has entirely disappeared. In Cincinnati there were only five deaths on the day of the last report. In Lafayette and Toledo it has nearly subsided. And in Sandusky City it is not near so virulent as last week.

In Huntington there was one death and two cases on Thursday, which is about the average of the past week. The total number of deaths up to that day was 25. In New York and Buffalo the disease rages with unabated violence. The number of cases and deaths up to the latest dates showing rather an increase.

Health of Fort Wayne.—Our city continues healthy. There has not been a single case of cholera this week; and we begin to indulge the hope that with due care and precaution on the part of our citizens, we may yet escape the ravages of the pestilence.

ALBION, Noble Co., Aug. 7th, 1849.

DEAR SIR:—Make room for old Noble in the galaxy of Northern Democratic Stars.

The following is the gratifying result from all the townships in the County except two, which will not materially change the result, but most probably add to the democratic majorities: Wright's maj. 143; Lane's 143; Harlan's 129; Dawson's 71; Van Ornum's (Representative) 30; Prentiss' (Clerk) 93; Allen (Co. Com'r.) 150; and Wildman 98.

Taking into the account the past history and political complexion of Noble County, we as democrats are disposed to consider the result as a most signal triumph on our part, and an entire rout and total defeat of the self-styled whig party, with all their unholy and unnatural alliances with Free Soil, Drakes, Ducks, and all the feathered tribes.

ELECTION RETURNS.

SANDUSKY CITY, Aug. 8—104 A. M.

To C. R. Miller.

Kentucky election not closed. Part of E. mancipation ticket probably elected in Louisville. In Tennessee democrats elect Trousdale Governor by three thousand majority—carry State Senate, Legislature, and have gained three members of Congress.

In North Carolina Stanley and Ashe elected. No change in delegation. No news from Indiana.

Election Returns from Tennessee.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 4—P. M.

Returns from nine counties in Tennessee indicate the election of Trousdale the Democratic candidate for Governor. He has gained in every county yet heard from, and like gains in the balance of the State will elect him by 3000 majority.

Ewing, whig, is elected to Congress in the Nashville district by 100 majority. (Taylor majority over Cass in 1848 was 6,286, and in 1846 N. S. Brown, whig, was elected Governor by 1,015 majority.)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 8—4 P. M.

To Republican.

Tennessee democratic Governor, gain of 3 democrat members of Congress. Kentucky—our opinion is that there will be a democratic gain. We doubt if Gales is elected. No report this afternoon.—True Democrat.

☞ We find the following in the Northern Citizen, of July 18, published at Jamestown, Chataqua Co., N. Y.

Gov. Whitcomb is still tarrying in our healthful village, and probably will remain here during the summer.—at least during the prevalence of the Cholera in the West. We are happy to state, however, that Mr. W. is gradually recovering his health, and at present is better than any time before, since coming to our village. Indeed, Jamestown is precisely the place to visit, for those seeking the recovery of lost health. We have pure air, pure water, good physicians and clear consciences, and these are needed to make any place healthy.

FOREIGN NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF THE CAMBRIA.

The Cambria arrived at Boston on the 1st instant with Liverpool dates to the 21st ult.

LIVERPOOL, July 21st.

Parliament is to be prorogued on the 9th of August. During last week there have been reported three hundred and thirty-nine deaths in London by cholera, this is more than double the number reported from preceding week.

Along the whole South coast of England it is raging in a very malignant and fatal form, and the mortality is frightful in the town.

LIVERPOOL.—The disease is rapidly increasing. Ireland continues free from the scourge. In County Down, Ireland, on the 24th of July a serious riot occurred between a large body of Orange men and Roman Catholics.

The Orange party having celebrated the day of Tollymore, and being on their march home in procession, whilst passing a defile, called Dollysbrad, found their pathway laid and all the passes and surrounding hills, were occupied by immense numbers of Roman Catholics, armed with pitchforks and fire arms, and evidently designing and prepared for a general massacre. The Protestants, aided by the small body of Police and military, stood upon their defence, and succeeded in forcing their way through the gates, after a short struggle, in which forty or fifty persons were slain or wounded on both sides. The greater proportion, however, of the killed and wounded were of the Catholics. Thirty-eight Ribbonmen had been taken prisoners. On Friday, two military gentlemen drove through the country around the scene of the contest, with the purpose of administering medical and surgical aid to the wounded, but they were refused admittance at every house they called at.

The harvests all through the United Kingdom exhibits satisfactory promises of a good yield. The reports for the crops over the continent of Europe are rather conflicting, but upon the whole, the appearance of the growing crops is satisfactory. At all the leading grain markets of England all kinds of grain were dull, and as the harvest drew nigh, prices manifested a tendency to decline.

LIVERPOOL MARKET.

JULY 21st.

FLOUR.—There is no activity in market for Breadstuffs, on the contrary it is rather in a depressed condition, and prices are somewhat lower than at the date of our last report: old western canal flour is selling at 24s. to 25s.; Ohio and Baltimore at 25s. to 25s. 6d. GRAIN.—American wheat is quoted at 9s. 9d. to 9s. 10d. in quality; Indian corn is quoted at 30s. a 32s. per quarter, the highest figure being the value of prime white. PROVISIONS.—The import of cured provisions into Liverpool during the week was one thousand three hundred barrels of pork, three hundred and forty-three tierces of hams, seven hundred and fifty boxes bacon, two hundred and fifty cases of lard, ninety-one barrels of lard, to a fair extent at present, pork only in a retail way at former quotations, there is only a small business in bacon; lard moves off steadily at full prices.

FRANCE.—The Assembly announces that the Prince Camille, the son of Louis Bonaparte and ex-President of the Roman Empire, has been arrested at Orleans, by order of the government, on his route from Versailles to Paris. It is reported that having a claim for money, lent in aid of his election, the Prince was coming to France to demand his, his ire having been stirred up by Louis Napoleon against the infant republic of Rome. It is supposed the Prince will not be imprisoned, but that he will be forced to embark for England or America. The change in the French Ministry was considered an event of some importance, and was widely discussed in the streets and cafes, touching a Consulate for life, for the Emperor, to consist of Henry VII and the Comte de Paris.

Pope Pius has addressed an autograph letter to General Oudinot on the occasion of receiving the keys of Paris. His Holiness congratulated the General on the triumph of order in Rome, and expressed a hope that the Divine Providence would speedily restore to Italy its former glory, and that the people will still exist will be healed—that the despotism will not materially change the result, but most probably add to the democratic majorities: Wright's maj. 143; Lane's 143; Harlan's 129; Dawson's 71; Van Ornum's (Representative) 30; Prentiss' (Clerk) 93; Allen (Co. Electricity and Cholera—A Selection of the Cholera and Cholera Selection.

Dr. Andraud, of Paris, has communicated to the Academy of Sciences the following interesting letter upon the connection between the cholera and electricity:

PARIS, June 1, 1849.

Throughout the varying courses of the ravages of the cholera in Paris, it is to say during the past three months nearly, I have studied the action of the electric machine daily, in order to satisfy myself whether there is not a fixed connection between the intensity of that scourge and the absence of the electric fluid usually diffused throughout the atmosphere.

The machine which has been the object of my daily observations is a very powerful one. At ordinary times it throws off, after two or three turns of the wheel, detonating sparks from two to twenty-four inches in length. At first observed that from the commencement of the epidemic it was impossible for me to produce this result once.

During the months of April and May the sparks obtained with great difficulty never exceeded the length of an inch, and the variations agreed very closely with the irregularities of the cholera. This supplied at once a strong ground of belief that I was close upon the important fact I sought to establish; yet I was not quite convinced, since the variable moisture of the atmosphere might have caused the irregularities of the machine.

I awaited, therefore, with impatience, the coming fine weather and heat, to continue my observations with more certainty. Heat and fine weather at length came, and to my amazement, the machine, though often referred to, far from detaching sparks, as should have been the case, an increase of electricity only gave more and more feeble indications of it to such a degree that during the days of the 4th, 5th, and 6th of June, it was impossible to obtain more than slight cracklings, without sparks, and at length on the 7th the machine remained entirely silent. This new decrease of the electric fluid coincided perfectly, as is well known, with the violence of the cholera. For my part, I felt appalled rather than surprised, my conviction was fixed, and I saw in it the result of a clearly established fact.

It may be imagined with what anxiety, the next day, Saturday, the 8th, I consulted the machine, and to my surprise, the sad and truthful witness of the cholera, at length, on the morning of the 8th, feeble sparks reappeared, their intensity increased from hour to hour, and I perceived with joy that the life giving fluid was returning into the atmospheric void. Towards evening a storm announced to Paris that electricity had re-entered its domain; in my view the cholera was vanishing with the cause that produced it. The next day, Sunday, the 9th, my experiments were continued, and everything had then returned to its proper condition; the machine at the slightest touch threw out brilliant sparks with ease, and, it might almost be said, with delight, as if aware of the good tidings it was bringing.

I have thought it my duty, Mr. President, to communicate these facts immediately to the

AND'S OINTMENT AND CONFECTION WDWEL, have earned a great name. For Distress, Safety, Cury and Thousand, Sloan's Ointment excels, and is recommending all other Ointments and Liniments use for the cure of the following diseases.

Wounds, Galls of all kinds, Sprains, Crawled Heat, Ringbone, Which are Treated with Cold, Colic, Stomach Disturbances, Strains, Lameness, Headache, Fever, Scurvy or Greasy Manes, in Distemper.

Powder will remove all inflammation and purify the blood, loosen the skin, cleanse and strengthen every part of the animal and render the animal healthy and vigorous. Distemper, Disturbance of the Stomach, Inward Strain, Yellow Fever, Inflammation of the Eyes, Fatigue from hard work, Rheumatism, (commonly called sprain,) which proves so fatal to many of our horses in this country. It keeps the animal tame ready for carriages and collars which it is so many fatal diseases.

THE SUFFERING CHILD.
 I hereby certify that one of my children, when he fell into a large fire of five coals, and suffered severely from head to feet. The medical aid and attention was given to him for four or five days without any result, and he died, and I hereby certify that he behaved at a great distance, at each period one of my neighbors, SCOTT, who presented to me a box of S.C. OINT-MENT, and in less than fifteen minutes after application of the Ointment to the several parts of the suffering child, the pain subsided, and he was enabled to recover, and became in full health. Veritatem

POPULAR OPINION.
This opinion is every criterion of the earth ruler, we invite the incredulous to read

new of the many voluntary contributions made in order to carry out the project of remarkable cures effected by the use of the Celebrated Ointment and Compound, and the fact that the most efficacious remedies no longer remain among those of little utility, they have passed from the experiment, and now stand highly recommended and becoming more extensively used in other articles of the kind—Sole Agents.

THE HALF HAS NOT BEEN TOLD.
 Fox River, June 12, 1859.
 Dear Sir: Please send by the next supply of your Horse Remedy. I am a sufferer from the kind that I have ever used, having been so disappointed in their effect, as to be in the use of others, even the celebrated Ointment, Liniment, &c., of the ly that all that is promised, and his of tristion one is constrained to add, that has not been told.

Respectfully,
M. S. DUBLER.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Ordinary Ointments and Liniments (if they are, now so rare and partial in their use) Stear's Ointment is made up thoroughly and complete for the cause, hence it is a permanent relief to all pains, mildest, safely, certainly, and Stear's Ointment excels, and surpassing all other Ointments and Liniments now in use.

ANY GET ALONG WITHOUT
Beebe's Grease, Will Call, 11
October 24, 1893.

There is no doubt the virtue of your Ointment, the cure of Rubeolous spots, blotches, and many other injuries, and in every case surpassed our expectations. As a Rheumatism, I have never seen its equal, unless we can't get along without it.

Yours, &c., Alfred M. Jones.

Excellent Ointment.

Stow.—Dear Sir: For a considerable time I was seriously afflicted with Rheumatism, and applied freely the various ointments, pain killers, &c., without relief. After which your Agent at Stow induced me to try your Ointment, and I was cured in less than a week. I can now use it whenever the pain ceases, and I will certainly recommend all who are afflicted with the distressing complaint, to use your excellent Ointment without delay.
